I divide precious time between our environmentally friendly home at a remote wilderness setting in central British Columbia and a quiet studio in Quesnel, B.C. My art works emerge from a fascination with the Earth in all its forms; they reference the vital interplay of person and place. Observations made while living, working, and traveling extensively in North and South America [including Greenland, the Arctic, and Antarctic] are portrayed in my art works. Studies at Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design (now Emily Carr University of Art and Design) invigorated my creative pursuits. My art education and art educator activities are ongoing. My art works are exhibited in private and public galleries in Canada and Chile. My exhibition history spans twenty five years with a total of twenty four solo exhibits and participation in over ninety group exhibits to date. Selected works are included in permanent collections at Penticton, Prince George and Quesnel, British Columbia and in Antofagasta, Chile. Judith's paintings are represented in British Columbia at the Quesnel Art Gallery.
